FRIDAY, AUG. 26, 1887.

The Buffalo Times is "for war" and lots of it. It says: "Recent events in connection with fisheries on the part of the Canadian authorities would seem to indicate that our 'Kanuck' neighbors are more than anxious to coax a blister on the Dominion's nose. The Canadian Government is well aware that or orders of the most positive character have been issued by the American owners of fishing vessels to observe in every way the provisions of the fisheries laws, and yet, on the slightest pretext, or on any ground that approaches in the remotest manner even a technical violation, American vessels are pounced upon and subjected to embarrassing and costly delays, and to over-officious impertinence." How would it do instead of "blistering" the Canadian nose, for the Americans to start scaling our fish? As the Buffalo Courier says, in answer to its local contemporary, the Times: "If American fishing vessels would not persist in going into Canadian waters to fish, there would be much less difficulty in reaching a satisfactory settlement of fishery disputes."

During the Home Rule debate last year there were frequent mutterings of a coming demand for Home Rule for India. At the General Election more than one Indian gentleman offered himself for election to inaugurating a Home Rule movement for India, and pressing the subject on the Government which was expected to grant that boon to Ireland. But that Government did not return to power, and we have heard little of the matter since, the task of procuring Home Rule even for Ireland having proved a much heavier one than was anticipated by its confident advocates. Remembering this agitation, it is somewhat startling to find that, little reason as there is for granting Home Rule to Ireland, this reason is a mountain in comparison with the infinitesimal right to a similar concession possessed by India. Some degree of capacity or fitness for self government is surely needed before this privilege may safely be granted; but however it be, in Ireland, in India there is visible next to none. It appears that the total number of graduates in Indian Universities during the twenty years preceding 1885 did not amount to 5,000. There are other educated natives besides these, but it is impossible to reckon the educated natives of all classes at more than 25,000 in all. The native population is 250,000,000. Of the 25,000 educated natives but a very carefully selected minority are fit for the Civil Service; which brings us to the result that out of 250,000,000 crying for Home Rule, only about 10,000 are in any way fit to take part in the business of Government, whether as civil servants, magistrates, or legislators. Evidently an Indian party in the House, to succeed the Irish obstructionists when they go to Dublin, would be premature at present.

BISHOP PINKHAM.

The Right Reverend W. Cyprian Pinkham, who in accordance with the command of His Grace of Canterbury, was consecrated to the see of Saskatchewan, was born in St. John, Newfoundland, in 1844. He was educated there at the Church of England Academy and after having had charge for a time of a public school in one of the suburbs, proceeded to St. Augustine's college, Canterbury, in 1865. During one vacation he acted as private tutor in the family of Sir Frederick Fowkes, the period of his college life closing in 1868. At this critical point in his life his youthful ambition was to serve among the brethren in India or Malagascaria, but in this his wish was overruled by what would seem in the truest sense, "a call." After his final examination before the S.P.G. board of examiners, the secretary of the society, Mr. Ballock, offered him the curacy of St. James in Rupert's Land, and though not at first disposed to accept it, after earnest consultation with Canon Batley, warden of the college, he determined to sacrifice his own wishes, and a month later sailed for Canada. On arriving at Montreal he heard from Bishop Tulford that the Bishop of Rupert's Land was expected shortly in London to preach the ordination sermon for the Bishop of Hararo. He proceeded to London, was allowed to sit for the ordination examination then just about to begin, and was finally ordained deacon by the Bishop of Rupert's Land. From this time—ended 1868—till October, 1881, he remained in charge of St. James, first as curate in charge under Archdeacon McLean, afterwards as rector. He was ordained a priest February, 1869. When the first education act was passed, 1871, he was appointed a member of the Council of Education. He succeeded the first superintendent of education, whose work he had previously undertaken in his enforced absence in 1872, and retained that office until 1883. In 1881 he was sent to Eastern Canada to study the normal and high school system, and to his practical suggestions is largely due the efficiency of the present educational machinery in the province; in particular, may be mentioned the collegiate department in our public schools, which, not only for economy and efficiency, are superior to the high school system, but form, as is practically demonstrated by our University examinations, a connecting link between the public school and the University. The Bishop is still a member of the Board of Education and represents it on the University council. In 1881, he was elected secretary of the Synod, and appointed Archdeacon in 1882. He has been a member of the Provincial Synod since its formation in 1874. He is a member of the council of St. John's college and has always taken the deepest interest in its welfare. Indeed, while his energy and zeal as Archdeacon, whether in organizing the diocese or pleading the cause of our church in Canada or in England, will not soon be forgotten, his services in furthering the cause of education in this country will have exerted perhaps a still greater influence. When the degree of Bachelor of Divinity was conferred upon him in 1876 by the late Bishop of Canterbury, it was given amongst other personal merits "on account of his services to the church and especially in the cause of education."

ST. LOUIS DE LANGEVIN.

While people are all praising the crops of this vicinity they don't perhaps extend their view beyond the South Saskatchewan; but it will be worth while to notice that on the south side of the South Branch, about twenty miles from Prince Albert, is a new parish established scarcely three years ago, which certainly don't take second rank in quality of ground, abundance of crops and beauty of site. Any one might be convinced of this by taking a square look at the about one thousand acres of cultivated ground within the six mile square adjoining McLeod's crossing, that this parish is promising as much as the best settlement of this district. They are generally first putting in the crops and consequently first harvesting. Oats and barley cutting is out of question there; for with the exception of a few, who for some reasons have been delayed in their seeding, they have them in stacks ready for threshing. Wheat is what those farmers are getting ready to go at, and within a week, if the weather keeps favorable, it will be seen on the market like the rest of their grain in abundance. One thing is certain that a settlement formed of mixed nationalities is always bound to go ahead faster than others; so in that parish we see in about even numbers Englishmen, Frenchmen, Scotchmen, Irishmen and Canadians and half breeds of each of these nationalities. Their farms are all well tilled and the best accord reigns among them. There is a church, a school and a blacksmith shop, and a merchant could do well there, as it is a great centre point of the neighboring settlements.

St. Louis is by no means behind in stock. It has not had much time yet to multiply, owing to the newness of the place; but it is sufficient to see Capt. Howie's herd of cattle and flock of sheep to be persuaded that it is the right spot for raising stock. All the farmers have more or less cattle and horses, and in a few years they will be able to hold their own in that line. Gardening seems to excel above all the rest, and we might for a moment forget that we are in a northern country when we contemplate in ecstasy the melons, corn and other more adapted to tropical climates vegetables growing in their gardens. Such a place is worthy of mention and we feel proud that this prosperous parish of St. Louis (de Langevin) is only a few miles from Prince Albert, and we recommend our bona fide incoming settlers to give it an inspection.

At the last session of the Dominion Parliament an appropriation of $100,000 was made to assist agricultural societies of the Territories.

At present as far as can be ascertained the grant will be made according to membership list. We beg to draw our readers' attention to claims of the Lorne Agricultural Society on the settlers of this district to become members. The good effects of the Society's work are being felt all over the district. Look at the rivalry among the different stock raisers each one trying to get the best possible stock to compete for the magnificent cups offered at the fall exhibition. The annual membership fee of the Society is only one dollar, which entitles each member to make as many entries as he requires without extra charge.

Every settler interested in the advancement and welfare of this district should assist the Society by becoming member, thereby encouraging the Society financially, besides enabling the executive to receive a larger Government grant of money.

The Society are greatly in need of suitable buildings and grounds and if their membership list is well filled up it will enable them to build next year.

New York, Aug. 15.—The Herald publishes a sensational story from Ottawa to the effect that a man from Duquette, a small village on the gulf of St. Lawrence shore of New Brunswick, says a British cruiser fired upon an American fishing schooner there eight days ago, and that she was sunk with all on board. The stranger says that the cruiser at once put to sea but that many people in the town saw the American vessel's masts go by the board when struck by the shot from the cruiser and that the fishing vessel sank immediately. He states that there were 15 sailors drowned.

Montreal, Aug. 6.—Hon. Col. Oulmet, who commanded the Wimbledon team, says the team won over £450 in prizes, and proved themselves to be equal to the best British shots.

TERRITORIAL NEWS

REGINA.

From the Leader, August 9.

Sergt. W. C. Asprey has received his promotion as Staff sergeant.

The improvements of the Indian Department buildings are being proceeded with.

Mr. Geo. Wilson, of Beaver Creek, 40 miles from Saskatoon, was in town last week. He says the crops in that district have been destroyed by Rocky Mountain locusts.

Nearly all the reports received to date from various parts of the Territories assure His Honor the Lieut-Governor that the present harvest will prove a bountiful one.

Sergt. Farmer, for some time band-master here, left on Thursday with ten men to join F Division at Prince Albert.

From the Journal, August 11.

Sergt. McPherson returned on Monday from the pursuit of the McLeish murderers. He followed them into Dakota, being only half an hour behind them in crossing the boundary. The American authorities refused to give him any assistance in securing the murderers.

The matter, however, will not be let drop, the proper papers will be obtained at Ottawa and efforts to secure the culprits renewed.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lennox, left for Vinden, Man., on Tuesday night last. Mr. Lennox has been leader and instructor of the Regina Brass Band for about a year past, and has brought it to its present state of proficiency. The band boys assembled at the station on Tuesday night to give their departing leader a farewell serenade.

BATTLEFORD.

From the Herald, August 6.

On Tuesday afternoon a hail storm of great violence but short duration visited the northern face of the Eagle Hills. It struck Geo. H. Harpur's fields with full force, cutting everything down. H. A. Head had two-thirds of his crops damaged and Peter Dakota a few acres of grain. The edge of the storm was so well defined that the outer row of potatoes in P. B. Richard's field was cut while the rest escaped. The leaves of the trees are cut off leaving the branches as bare as in winter, and some good hay grounds are completely ruined. Many of the hail stones were an inch in diameter.

Some weeks ago a colony of grasshoppers hatched out on the plains between the Bush and Eagle Creek, on the Swift Current trail, and for the distance of about a day's travel cleaned off every green thing. But their appetites were stronger than their growth; they ate down everything within their reach while they were yet too young to fly, and so starved to death. To-day they lie thick upon the ground while over them is springing up the second growth of grass, such as will furnish ample food for the animals used in freighting. That swarm is past doing harm another year.

EDMONTON.

From the Bulletin, July 30.

The hail storm of Sunday 17th inst. cut ten acres of barley and damaged seven acres of oats belonging to A. Cameron of the Strathcona, and broke several windows in C. Paré's house and destroyed all life crop.

J. Lamoureux expected to have his new steamboat running to-day. He uses the engine of the old government tug, brought up to Saskatoon in 76.

An aerolite fell on the Stony reserve at the Horse Narrows, Lake St. Anne, about 6 o'clock on Sunday evening 17th inst., half a mile from the Indian houses on the reserve and three miles from the H. B. post. The sky was clear at the time, and being in broad day light the aerolite was easily seen by the Indians in the houses. It approached from the east, having the appearance of a small white comet. While still at considerable distance in the air it burst, with a noise like the firing of a cannon and mortality. The report was heard by Mr. Taylor at the H. B. post, three miles distant, who was coming out of the house with a pack of smoke, which as would be made by gun smoke, starting from a common direction the air about the aerolite exploded. This appearance was also seen by the Indians from their houses. The explosion took place over the shore of the lake and apparently none of the people fell near the lake, sending up no smoke or fire of any kind. One of the pieces which fell on the shore, as large as a man's two fists, was picked up by an Indian named Painted Stone, and is valued by him as a good medicine. He only asks twenty-five dollars for it. The Indians look upon the fall of the aerolite as a bad sign. It is reported to have been seen passing over St. Albert settlement and also over the Little Devil's lake, twenty miles this side of Lake St. Anne.

CALGARY.

From the Herald, August 12.

A number of prominent citizens walked over to the Mission last night and settled Rev. Father Lacombe by presenting him with a gold watch. The presentation was made by E. R. Rogers, and among those present were: Mayor King, Major Walker, A. Rowe, James Reilly, Alex. Lucas and others. Father Lacombe made a brief speech, thanking his friends for their kindness and expressing his sorrow at leaving the parish. Rev. Father Andre also spoke a few words. He said the reason Father Lacombe was called from Calgary was because the half-breeds and Indians along the Saskatchewan were still discontented and not very friendly towards the priests who were with them and restrained them during the rebellion; therefore it was necessary to send men like father Lacombe, who thoroughly understood the Metis and Indian character and who was not mixed in the rebellion, to reason with them and look after their interests. After a cordial handshaking all round the surprise party returned to town.

GENERAL NEWS.

Paris Aug. 10.—The Boulanger-Ferry affair has ceased to be a live topic in social, political and official circles, but interest in the incident has not yet died out among the members of the league, who believe Ferry was afraid to meet Boulanger, and by refusing to do so has forfeited the respect of all patriotic Frenchmen. It is contended that such men as Ferry do more to belittle France in the eyes of Germany than any one can possibly imagine and the assertion is commonly put forth that France will never again be treated with proper respect by Germany until Boulanger is recalled to the war office with a ministry of his own choosing. The action of Gen. Boulanger in tendering his resignation to Mr. Karkoff has greatly increased the enthusiasm of the league for his return to power, and the enemies of the commander of the thirteenth corps unhesitatingly assert he waited until the league had tendered its sympathy before offering his own in order to score another point in the game he is playing. With the popularity of the masses, the Patriotic League is a powerful organization, and Boulanger is its idol. Whether the idol will ever call upon his worshippers to follow him across the German border remains to be seen.

Vienna, Aug. 12.—The Political Correspondence publishes a despatch from St. Petersburg stating that in addition to the settlement of the Afghan country question, Russia and England have agreed, in the event of the death of the Amir, to a partition of Afghanistan between them.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 14.—The largest crowd of people that has gathered in this village since the famous opening day of the new park saw Alphonso King cross the river on his water bicycle this afternoon. This vehicle is new in these waters, and King's claims as an inventor have been challenged by Pittsburgh parties. Nobly believed that the light machine would safely resist the turbulence of the waters just below the falls, and King's feat was regarded as quite hazardous so were the varied voyages before Captain Graham forsook the whirlpool rapids and set on his way. When at a point nearly under the carriage suspension bridge being jumped to the seat of his craft, dropped his hat to those in the boat and on the shore, and started. The bicycle rode bravely and well until the centre of the river was reached, where it encountered a whiff. The current was swift and the waves were ugly and choppy here and the strange craft was tossed from side to side a good deal. King put some muscular power in his legs, however, and passed through safely. In the comparative thick darkness which the Canadian shore he speeded a little and made excellent headway against the strong current. For instance, some five feet at this point is about 1,000 feet and was traversed by him in about a half hour and was half minutes.

The D. R. A. medal was won by Mr. A. Goodfellow, who made the highest aggregate in the three first matches, getting 181 points out of a possible 245, with D. Williamson 180. Considering the amount of practice had, we consider these two scores first class.

Const. A. E. Montgomery won the special prize of $5 for the best score made at 500 yards during these matches, with a score of 35, F. C. Baker coming next with 32.

Taken altogether the meeting was a very successful one.

We are pleased to see Mr. R. C. Wigmore out again, and fully recovered from the serious accident which recently befell him.

Mrs. Cameron, of the Ridge, was in town the beginning of the week purchasing supplies. She was starting for home when the horse ran away. Mrs. Cameron was thrown out and had her arm broken between the elbow and wrist. She returned home on Wednesday.

A. H. Clark, Sec. of the Lorne Agricultural Society, received a letter from Land Commissioner Eden of the M. & N. W. R. Co., offering to pay the expenses on samples of grain in stock. The samples to be exhibited in their office window on Main street, Winnipeg, with the grower's name attached to each and due attention called to same in the newspapers there. Samples to be left with the secretary.

Last Friday, Mr. Puzer and another man of the party now working at the channel through the Cedar Falls were tracking a raft along the shore when suddenly they discovered an enormous black bear within forty yards of them. They immediately shouldered their arms, one a shot gun, the other a revolver, and blazed away at the bear. The gun loaded with duck shot took effect and lodged about an ounce of lead in the abdomen of the bear, who became furious and turned on them. The most advisable thing to do then would have been to run to their raft, and that is just what they did.
